

What a night

TIRED of TV, lack of sunshine and a long, long winter, I ventured out to an event which lifted my spirits and gave me such enjoyment.

I went to the Rising Stars concert where I saw and heard three Solihull youngsters whose talent and abilities amazed me.

Hannah Roper was startling on violin, Joss Brookes superb on cello, while pianist James Maloney brilliance shone through.

Keep your eyes and ears open over the coming years because these performers will soon be the stars of the present!
